COVID 2025: Our World in the Next 5 Years

Coronavirus is changing our lives on a daily basis. What will our world look like in the next five years? How will the pandemic permanently reshape our lives?

“COVID 2025: Our World in the Next 5 Years” is a new video series featuring leading scholars at the University of Chicago discussing how coronavirus will change health care and international relations, education and urban life, and many other aspects of our lives and world—and what steps are crucial now to shaping that future.
